Modesty Woodward named MCM Volunteer of the Month

PRESS RELEASE • FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE • 4/12/18

Modesty Woodward has been recognized as an outstanding volunteer at Mississippi Children's Museum (MCM) and has been named "Volunteer of the Month" for March.

Woodward, a senior at Jackson State University, is majoring in Communicative Disorders. When asked about her volunteer time at MS Children's Museum she shared "I would like to thank everyone for giving me such warm welcome when I first became a volunteer at the Mississippi Children's Museum! My experience with the museum has been phenomenal from working with Outside the Lines to the school groups! Everything was well organized and handled in a professional manner. Thank you for such an awesome opportunity!"

Woodward has impressed the staff at MCM because of her willingness to jump in anywhere she is needed, and how well she relates with children. "Modesty is very professional and always willing to interact with children. She also has a very pleasant disposition and has formed very positive relationships with the staff here," noted Sharon Griffin, MCM's Volunteer Coordinator. "She is very reliable about her schedule and takes her commitment seriously. In a nutshell, we think Modesty is awesome!"

Students who attend Jackson State University are required to complete 120 hours of community service before they graduate. MS Children's Museum is one of the approved sites for students to complete their community service hours, where they can donate their time and talent, working around their class and work schedules, with the goal of making a positive difference at the university and in the community.
