As a senior at Clinton High School, Jadarius Brown has found the time during his last few months of high school to volunteer at Mississippi Children's Museum in Jackson, MS. He was recently recognized as "Volunteer of the Month" for November from among hundreds of other museum volunteers.

Jadarius has volunteered on the weekends and after school logging in almost 40 hours in six weeks. He has helped supervise children on the MS Children's Museum's new "Snowflake Slide" many times, prepared Christmas decorations, assisted children creating Spin Art, and prepped Christmas crafts for guests. His greatest asset as a volunteer may be his willingness to always help the people around him. Patti Reiss, MS Children's Museum Program Director, said "Jadarius is always open to answer questions from parents, children or other volunteers. He goes out of his way to help find the answer to a question and make sure people are well taken care of."

Great manners and a positive attitude are just a few of the reasons Jadarius Brown has been recognized as an outstanding volunteer with the MS Children's Museum.

About the Mississippi Children's Museum

The Mississippi Children's Museum (MCM) is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that provides unparalleled experiences that ignite a thirst for discovery, knowledge, and learning in all children. MCM is dedicated to inspiring Mississippi's children from all backgrounds to discover and achieve their potential. The museum features 40,000 square feet of exhibit space designed around five primary initiatives: Literacy, STEM, Health and Nutrition, Cultural Arts, and Mississippi History. The museum's exhibits, programs, and outreach opportunities provide engaging, explorative, hands-on educational activities for children of all ages.
