PRESS RELEASE • FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE • 4/9/2021

Kayla Hudson has been recognized as an outstanding volunteer at the Mississippi Children's Museum (MCM) and has been named "Volunteer of the Month" for February.

Hudson, a student at Jackson State University has volunteered 26 hours since 2018. "I selected the Mississippi Children's Museum to volunteer, because I am the current America's Elegant Miss Mississippi Teen, and their main goal is to create leaders through volunteering. With the platform including both children and STEM exploration, the Mississippi Children's Museum seemed to be the best option for me," Hudson says.

"One thing I love about volunteering at the Mississippi Children's Museum is how nice all of the staff and administration is, even though I am a volunteer they still show appreciation of me and don't treat me like I am any less valuable to them," Hudson says.

Sharon Griffin, MCM's Volunteer Coordinator, describes Kayla as generous with her time and talents. "Volunteers bring light and life to many incredible charitable endeavors. Recognizing her altruistic individualism and valuable contributions is an essential part of our volunteer recognition program," Griffin says, "All of your volunteering is greatly appreciated."

Kayla said her experience volunteering at MCM has been beyond amazing and she recommends others take the time to volunteer. "I would recommend others to really be interactive with the kids," Hudson says, "As someone who always wanted a younger sibling, it feels so nice to make the children's experience fun."

The Mississippi Children's Museum thanks Kayla Hudson for her service as a reliable volunteer and appreciates her time and dedication to MCM.
